AREA INFORMATION

Welcome to Orange County Virginia!
Nestled in Virginia's north-central Piedmont region, Orange County is graced with rolling landscapes and incredible mountain vistas.

Wine aficionados savor the finest wines at our award-winning wineries and tour old world cellars where the smell of oak barrels and aged wines make this an unforgettable experience.

Travel the Constitution Route, Virginia State Route 20, and visit presidential homes, Civil War battlefields, wineries and other historic sites. Walk in the footsteps of James Madison, our fourth President and "Father of the Constitution" at his beloved home Montpelier. Delight in the breathtaking view from Montpelier, described by Madison as, "A squirrel's jump from heaven."

Four U.S. presidents, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Taylor, were either born or built their private estates along this historic 90-mile route. A short drive from Madison's Montpelier is Thomas Jefferson's Monticello and James Monroe's Ash Lawn-Highland.

Envision the crimson fields of battle and feel the spirit of thousands of soldiers who fought at the Wilderness Battlefield as you travel the Civil War Trails. Enjoy gracious southern hospitality, equestrian events, museums, galleries, quaint shops and lodging at elegant and charming bed and breakfast inns, or at the award-winning Holiday Inn Express with views of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Exceedingly rich in history, Orange County was created in 1734 and named in honor of William, Prince of Orange, and husband of Anne, Princess Royal of England. It bears the distinction of having been the largest Virginia county ever formed and covered the vast unknown territory from its present eastern boundary to the Mississippi River on the west and to the Great Lakes on the north.

In 1722, King George I awarded patents totaling 13,500 acres to James Taylor II, a former Knight of the Golden Horseshoe. Two of Taylor's great-grandsons became President of the United States - Zachary Taylor, born in Orange County, and James Madison of Montpelier.

Location: Orange County is located 72 miles from the state capitol of Richmond; 75 miles from Northern Virginia and the nation's capitol, Washington, D.C.; and 25 miles from Charlottesville. The county consists of 355 sq. miles (277,200 acres) with elevations of 175 feet above sea level along the Rapidan River, to 1,200 feet in the Blue Ridge foothills. The towns of Orange, Gordonsville and Locust Grove are the historic centers of commercial and industrial activity.

Scenic Virginia By-Ways: Most main roads through Orange County, including routes 3, 15, 20, 22 and 231, are officially endorsed as official Virginia Scenic By-Ways, meaning that they lead to, or are within, areas of historical, natural or recreational significance.

Topography: The topography ranges from steep and rolling hills in the northern part of the county, to fairly level land in the southern portion.

Climate: The average high temperature in the summer is 86 degrees (F), while winter's average low temperature is 30 degrees (F). Annual precipitation averages 41 in., and the average snowfall is 17 inches.

Directions: The County is located in Central Virginia. Interstates 95 and 64 are within 40 miles of the Town of Orange. The Visitors Bureau is located at 122 East Main Street, at the Train Station in the Town of Orange.

From I-64, take Exit 136 and follow Rt. 15N to the Town of Orange. Turn right on Main St. (Rt. 20). Train Station is on the right.

From Interstate 95, take Exit 130/Rt. 3W. Follow Rt. 3W. to Rt. 20S. Turn right onto 15N. Turn right onto Main Street. Train Station will be on the right.

Attractions

Beautiful rolling hills with the Blue Ridge Mountains in the distance, magnificent sunsets and peaceful surroundings add to the experience when visiting Orange County's award-winning wineries, historic churches, presidential homes, and museums. Come explore the vastness of our beauty, history and culture for yourself.

Montpelier, Home of James and Dolley Madison

11407 Constitution Highway, Montpelier Station
540-672-2728

www.montpelier.org

The lifelong home of James Madison, fourth President and “Father of the Constitution,” and wife Dolley, America’s FIRST “First Lady.” Experience the world of James and Dolley Madison as you explore their newly restored plantation home where you can stand in the library where James Madison first envisioned the Constitution. Walk in an old growth forest where he contemplated democracy, gaze at the majestic Blue Ridge Mountains and stroll through the formal garden. Visitors can watch the ongoing archaeological excavation each summer at Mount Pleasant, the site of Grandfather Ambrose Madison’s early home.

The Gilmore Cabin is a post-Civil War African-American’s house on the Montpelier property. The log house was built in about 1870 by George Gilmore, a former Madison slave. President Madison’s nephew owned the land. George Gilmore was more than 90 years old when he purchased the house and 16 acres for $560, just before the death of Dr. James Ambrose Madison in 1901.

Delight in the spectacular views of the Blue Ridge Mountains and enjoy the many special events held annually at historic Montpelier.

Barboursville Ruins

17655 Winery Road, Barboursville

540-832-3824

www.barboursvillewine.com

Governor Barbour's mansion, now preserved as a historic landmark after a Christmas Day fire in 1884, was designed by Thomas Jefferson to be the grandest residence in Orange County. With brick walls laid in Flemish bond, Palladian porticoes on two sides and a splendid central octagonal parlor, the Barbour mansion was the seat of a thriving agriculture estate of early Virginia. Barbour was Virginia's first Governor (1812-1814), U.S. Senator, Secretary of War, Ambassador to Great Britain, and President of the Albemarle Agricultural Society as his neighbor James Madison had been before him. He is buried with members of his family on the estate in a simple gravesite, now preserved by Barboursville Vineyards.

Ash Lawn-Highland

Home of President James Monroe

1000 James Monroe Parkway, Charlottesville

434-293-9539

www.ashlawnhighland.org

This 535-acre estate of James and Elizabeth Monroe recreates their early 19th century plantation. Enjoy the Monroes' refurbished home and its elegant American and French furnishings, costumed crafters, boxwood gardens, picnic spots, grazing cattle and glimpses of Monticello. Children delight in visiting the sheep, chickens and peacocks, and rolling hoops on the lawn. Groups welcome. Annual events include Historic Garden Week in April, Virginia Wine Festival in May, Plantations Days, Summer Music Festival, Christmas festivities and more. Open daily 9-6 April-October, and 11-5 November-March. Closed on New Year's Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day.

Ellwood Manor & Wilderness Battlefield on the Virginia Civil War Trails

Route 20, 1 mile south of Route 3, Locust Grove
540-786-2880

www.fowb.org

Perched on a knoll overlooking Wilderness Run, the circa 1790 plantation has a rich Civil War heritage, in addition to a visit by the Marquis de Lafayette in 1824. It served as a Confederate Hospital and later as the Headquarters of three Union generals. The family cemetery became the burial site for General "Stonewall" Jackson's amputated arm. Operated by the National Park Service. Open 9 to 5, seven days a week, including Memorial Day-Columbus Day. Located on Route 20, one mile south of the Rt. 3 & 20 intersection.

Germanna Visitors Center

Rt. 3 Germanna Highway, Locust Grove
540-423-1700

www.germanna.org

Lieutenant Governor Alexander Spotswood was sent from England by the appointed Royal Governor George Hamilton, Earl of Orkney, to take charge of the Virginia colony in 1710. In 1714, he established the first fully equipped iron furnace in the colonies and settled a group of German immigrants on the banks of the Rapidan River and named the settlement "Germanna." At that time, Germanna represented the western frontier for English settlement in the New World. The Center houses a research library and memorabilia. Hours are Tuesday-Saturday 1-5 pm.

HISTORIC CHURCHES

Emanuel Baptist Church

100 East Church Street, Orange

540-672-5116

Built in 1913, this is a vernacular church with Gothic Revival details, such as its pointed-arched louvered vent in entry tower. The building is notable for its fine shingle patterning.

Gordonsville Presbyterian Church

406 North Main, Gordonsville

540-832-3504

The oldest church in Gordonsville, built about 1855. General "Stonewall" Jackson worshipped here during the Civil War, and his pew is preserved in the church.

Nazareth Baptist Church

115 East Church Street, Orange

540-672-3401

This one-story, framed and masonry vernacular church, was built in 1914 with Gothic Revival detailing. The church facade was bricked in 1992.

Old Blue Run Baptist Church

Rt. 20, Barboursville

540-832-5943

Established in 1766, it included two blacks among the founding members. By the late 1850s, black membership was more than 80% of the congregation. After the Civil War, the congregation bought the church building. Blue Run continues as a vital part of the community today.

Orange Presbyterian Church

162 West Main Street, Orange

540-672-4240

Built in 1910, the church is a later interpretation of Jeffersonian Classicism/Roman Revival style. Note the portico with Tuscan columns and corner pilasters.

Trinity United Methodist Church

143 West Main Street, Orange

540-672-3544

Built in 1892, the church is an L-shaped brick structure. The building reflects Gothic Revival styling in its pointed arches, leaded glass transoms and rose windows.

St. Thomas's Episcopal Church

119 Caroline Street, Orange

540-672-3761

Built in 1833, this church is a Classical example of the Jeffersonian-inspired Roman Revival style. The parish's original Church was built in 1740 outside of this district and no longer exists. General Robert E. Lee attended St. Thomas's, and a plaque has been placed on the pew where he sat for worship.

Waddell Memorial Church

Village of Rapidan

540-672-0334

Rare wooden Gothic-style church constructed in 1874 and named for the locally famous blind preacher, James Waddell.

MUSEUMS

Civil War Museum at The Exchange Hotel

400 South Main St., Gordonsville

540-832-2944

www.hgiexchange.org

This beautifully restored Greek revival structure was built as a railroad hotel in 1860. Before the Civil War, The Exchange Hotel, with its high ceiling parlors and grand veranda, welcomed passengers from two rail lines: the Virginia Central Railroad and the Orange Alexandria Railroad. During the war soldiers, supplies and the wounded were transported on these railroads to Gordonsville. The hotel became The Receiving Hospital, which provided care for 70,000 soldiers, Confederate and Union. During the reconstruction period, this hospital served newly freed slaves as a Freedman's Bureau Hospital.

The museum presents several re-enactments year round. Please go online to see current happenings. Open 1-4. Closed mid-December through mid-March.

MONTICELLO WINE TRAIL

MONTICELLO WINE TRAIL

The wineries of the Monticello appellation fulfill a vision of Thomas Jefferson, whose aim was to produce exceptional quality wines like those he had tasted on his travels to Europe.

Today, 500 acres of vitis vinifera vineyards surround Jefferson's historic Monticello estate. In just over two decades, the wine industry in the Central Virginia region surrounding Charlottesville has flourished, achieving national and international acclaim.

The wineries vary from the largest, producing over thirty thousand cases to smaller operations of several thousand cases. They all have their own grape plantings, although many also lease vineyards in order to increase their production.

Most of the wineries and their Tasting Rooms are open to the public and you will find hours of operation for each winery as you visit the individual web pages. Follow the Monticello Wine Trail and discover your favorite Monticello area winery. Enjoy breathtaking views, sample award-winning wines, and meet the people who today are producing world-class wines in the heart of Virginia.

GENEALOGY & RESEARCH

Orange County Courthouse

103 W. Main Street, Orange

Constructed in 1859 and designed by Charles Haskins of Washington, D.C., the Italianate-style courthouse is characterized by its centrally located three-stage tower with overhanging eaves. It is the town's third courthouse, the first having been completed in 1749 and the second courthouse, built 1802-04. Those two earlier courthouses were located on the public lot, partially occupied by the Orange Train Station.

In August 1862, a brisk skirmish between three Union Cavalry regiments and the Confederate 7th Virginia Cavalry erupted in front of the Courthouse.

COUNTRY INNS

The 1804 Inn & The Vineyard Cottage at Barboursville Vineyards

17655 Winery Road, Barboursville

434-760-2212

www.the1804inn@barboursvillewine.com

On the grounds of Barboursville Vineyards, the 1804 Inn was opened, not invented. The silence of Flemish bond walls, the airiness of 11-foot ceilings, and the glow of hand-hewn floors are irreplaceable, and even more extraordinary, are its priceless antique furnishings and art. The Vineyard Cottage is an 18th-Century dwelling, pre-dating the Jeffersonian mansion a discreet stroll away, lovingly restored as a 21st Century guest cottage in the serene private section of the Estate, overlooking the vineyards and the Blue Ridge beyond.
